

Example of how this release script makes commits and branches to track version numbers. Note that this is all done on a remote repository, as one "should not release on your own machine", triggers may fire upon noting the push of a version tag.